

Dear Cashier,

Thank you.

Thank you for being a cashier. Thank you for choosing to dispense cash to the public – the needy, the old and the young alike.

Thank you for being patient and helping out people who do not know the proper procedures. We know that it gets dull and boring at times, and you'll have to dole out cash to people without getting frustrated. We know that this is a standard procedure and there is not much scope for doing something different. But, we also do know that it takes an enormous amount of persistence to keep drudging ahead and keep counting on and dispensing cash to the public.

We know it is worth it to see the look of the needy man returning back with a smile knowing that he now has money in his hands. We thank you for that.

We thank you, especially today, in troubled times when everyone is at a dire need for money in their hands. We thank you for the several hours you work overtime to ensure that the society can move forward at a comfortable pace. In today's times, we know that people will complain, get angry, flustered and we thank you for being leaders, being patient and ensuring that chaos doesn't ensue by giving due diligence to procedures without getting agitated.

The country needs you now more than ever and we thank you for the great job that you are doing today.

Thank you.

We are humbled by the great service you are doing to the society today.

With respect,

Student.
