

Dear Dad,

Thank you!

Thank you for all the things you have ever done for me.

For lending me your little finger as a support to take my first step, making your shoulders the tallest chair in a crowded stadium, being the first one to clap in all my stage performances, providing your back just to show your little girl how it feels to ride a horse.

Thank you for not leaving my side even when I was rude to you or even when I couldn't stand up to your expectations.

Thank you for cutting short your desires to fulfill ours .And also for letting me believe in myself.

You made me strong Strong enough that I can take my own decisions.

You taught me to be both - a princess who deserves all the care and love of the world and also a warrior who knows how to protect herself from all the evils out there.

Thank you for telling me that it is ok to do mistakes, what actually matters is to learn from them.

Thank you for being so patient with me. For telling me that not all waves in life are to surf on, one should know which ones will take you ashore and which will drown you.

Though you have never been as vocal as mom, but your presence in every decision of my life was felt time after time. You were the reason I was never afraid to try something new as I knew I always had someone to turn to.

Yours lovingly,

Little girl
